How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.
As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels. ☜

PIANOS.

GAINED FIRST PREMIUM FOR GREATEST merit at the New Orleans Cotton Centennial and WORLD'S Exposition for refined and wonderful power of tone, elegance of design, and superb finish. Only piano endorsed by United States commissioners, from each of the States. Cases finest carved, rosewood finish finest imported double repeating action—three strings throughout of best patent steel wire—keys best ivory. Our new patent steel tuning device, instead of wood, is the greatest invention ever made in pianos. It consists of stationary STEEL tuning pins that are set in a mold and molten STEEL is run round the pins keeping them solidly in place. A thimble or shell pin is made to exactly fit the stationary pin revolving therein; thus the strings wind round the pins. After the strings are properly stretched the piano can never get out of tune, the rest plank being of STEEL not affected by extremes of climate. This will be appreciated by all musicians in city or country. It will stand twenty years without tuning and is good for 100. No other piano has this improvement.
Great strength and durability is another advantage. In other pianos holes are bored in wooden boards and tuning pins inserted. The pins turn in this board and cannot stand permanently in tune, and it often cracks, splits, dry s out, becoming utterly, totally and entirely worthless as a musical instrument. Our STEEL tuning device is in no way affected by such casualities, and the sounding board is so constructed that our pianos can never become thin or metallic in tone. They are always in tune and the expense of tunning is saved. This patent alone is worth millions and makes our piano the greatest in the world. Prices are no higher than other pianos. Buying direct from us, the largest manufacturers, you save $100 or $200—dealers' profits. Don't mind the ominous growlings of dealers and agents, who see their chances of selling a poor piano at a big profit of $200—slipping away—pity them.
We guarantee our pianos ten years. 200 styles. We have put our prices at lowest bed-rock for Cash.

A $600 Piano for $259.50; a $900 Piano for $297 50; a $1200 Piano for $375.50; a $1500 Piano for $475.50.

Upright Cabinet Grands, with stool and rubber cover shipped on board cars at S. F., to any part of the United States, Canada or Mexico. Our terms are cash with order. If not as represented money returned. We occasionally have good second-hand pianos, made over at $100 to $300, which we take in part payment for our own. Write or call for catalogue, free.

EMPRESS EUGENIE.

The Court Life of the Third Napoleon's Beautiful Wife.

The life of the Empress soon became utterly monotonous and wearisome. She rose at about half-past nine, and took the late breakfast replacing lunch in France, with the Emperor alone, at half-past eleven. At two her ladies came. In Paris they slept at their own homes, but in the country residences they had their stated turns of waiting, and during that time lived at the palaces. Amongst her ladies, of course some were more agreeable to her than others; but she must accept the inexorable turn of precedence, and could not choose her companions. Day after day she drove out with the lady whose privilege entitled her to a seat in the imperial carriage; day after day she went to the Bois de Boulogne and bowed incessantly to the crowd; day after day she returned just in time to dress for dinner; and then came the weary evening, where nobody had any thing to say, or, if they had, dared to say it. No one could sit down till she gave the gracious permission; but this she did invariably in the case of ladies. Her ready good-nature would have willingly extended the privilege to the gentlemen in waiting, but this was contrary to rule, and must not be. So the ladies sat in a circle and the gentlemen "stood at ease," tired out before the close of the evening. When her Majesty retired, scarcely had the last fold of her skirt passed the door before all the weary attendants threw themselves on the sofas. The presence of Majesty necessarily prevented all animated conversation; every one awaited the pleasure of the sovereigns. The Emperor spoke very little, and in a soft, languid voice; the Empress, feeling that the general chill would be unbearable if she did not take the lead, chatted incessantly with a sort of feverish vivacity. Her voice did not seem to belong to that sweet face; it was the Spanish voice, guttural and harsh. She spoke French with perfect fluency, but with a decided foreign accent.

The weariness of those evenings became so unendurable that all kinds of experiments were tried to vary their monotony. One night the Empress suddenly took a fancy to make artificial flowers, and a chamberlain was immediately despatched, at nine o'clock in the evening, to procure the necessary materials. Another time she, who possessed the most beautiful specimens of ceramic art that France could afford, was seized with a violent desire for "potichomanie," and this again must be satisfied immediately. Reading aloud was proposed. But what book could be chosen for such an assembly? Some one proposed Jane Eyre, the well-known novel; the Empress was amused, but the Emperor utterly wearied. Then they tried Josephus and the Wars of the Jews. Here the Emperor was intensely interested, but the Empress yawned, and the attempt was given up.

The Emperor was in general more popular in the imperial household than the Empress; his languid gentleness was in nobody's way, but the Empress was often irritable and capricious. She was certainly intelligent, but her education had been neglected, and she cared for no intellectual employment or artistic occupation. She hated music; she had no taste for the fine arts; even a well-written play at the Theater Francais did not amuse her. She would have liked the small theaters—any thing, in short, that could make her laugh; but this undignified kind of pleasure could not often be enjoyed. Her life had been one of constant amusement, the empty existence of watering-places, and now she was in fact a prisoner. She gave state balls, but they were filled with such a motley crowd that she could only dance the opening quadrille and walk through the rooms. Then she gave select private balls, but the absence of the French aristocracy obliged her to invite a large proportion of wealthy foreigners—Russians, Wallachians, and also Americans. These were unknown in French society, and splendor of dress seemed the only means of being remarked. To attain this end no extravagance seemed too excessive, and the Empress was blamed as having originated the love of dress, which spread in all classes and became a complete mania.

So far as she herself was concerned, the accusation has been greatly exaggerated. She certainly liked dress, and preferred fragile clouds of tulle and gauze to the heavy but durable magnificence of valuable lace and brocaded stuffs worn by the Bourbon Princesses. But the light clouds in which the fair Empress appeared like an Undine or sylph were very expensive, and could only be worn once. Every one wished to be like the Empress, and at every ball filmy dresses costing fabulous prices were torn to pieces, and had to be replaced. Husbands grumbled, and the Empress was accused of ruining families by setting the example of extravagance.—Anna L. Bicknell, in Harper's Magazine.

—Five years ago the increase of wolves in France had become so serious that the Government found it necessary to raise the awards for killing them. In 1882 423 wolves were killed, in 1883 1,316, in 1884 1,035, in 1885 900, and in 1886 760. The awards are now 200 francs for the killing of a wolf which has attacked human beings, 150 francs for one in young, 100 francs for a male wolf, and 40 francs for a cub.

—A generous concession: Lynching party (apologetically)—"We've come to tell yer, ma'am, that we lynched yer husband. We admit we got the wrong man, but yer got the laugh on us this time."—Judge.

THE SULTAN'S HAREM.

Conspicuous Personages and Officials of the Establishment.

The Sultana Valide is the only inmate of the royal harem who is privileged to receive visits from foreigners. Under a manner of quiet dignity she carries determination, which makes high officials dread her influence and seek her favor. In time of peril and distress she may admit deputations from the army and people, her judgment in affairs is acknowledged, and she has been known to plead for her son with eloquence and pathos. At the festival of Bairam, celebrated by the departure of pilgrims for Mecca, she joins the highest dignitaries and ministers, officers, civil and martial, in kissing the hem of the Sultan's robe. By court etiquette he must stand in her presence, sitting at her request; in return, the place at his right hand, given by Solomon to his mother, is still the reserved seat for the mother of the Padisha. The pontoon bridge spanning the Golden Horn, crossed daily by 100,000 men, is called the Bridge of the Sultana Valide, and leads to a mosque of the same name.

A conspicuous person about the palace is the Bairam Aga, keeper of the maidens, a jet-black Nubian, probably from the Soudan. He wears a gorgeous uniform of scarlet and gold, has the air of authority, and on his ample breast displays a dozen imperial, royal and Christian orders of which he is knight. He ranks with Prime Ministers and Field Marshals, disputes precedence with ambassadors, and is courted for his influence. A genuine African, he loves jewels, and on the hand graciously extended for kisses of the Faithful there glitters a ruby second only to the one for which Kubla Khan offered a city and was refused. From the savings of his income the Guardian of the Lilies has built a mosque for his lordly sepulcher when his term of vigilant service is ended.

The true Oriental is unsurpassed in secrecy, and there is a fascination in his silence which moves the gossip to insatiate curiosity. The foreigner must stop at the carved and gilded portal of the consecrated place. Even Bairam Aga does not pass it. Ambassadors have petitioned and Princesses sued in vain for entrance into the gate of felicity. The outside world hears not the faintest echo of the strange, adventurous life of women whose loves, hates, spites, intrigues, are plays played out with neither audience nor spectator to report. If Bairam Aga knows more than we do, he makes no sign; he is secret as the grave.

Seven female officers preside over the haremlik. Each has her slaves and establishment, and may be often seen shopping in the city, attended by the imperial servants. Seven thousand persons daily eat the bread and salt at the Grand Signor. My brief space forbids enumeration of service or wages. A few items are: 300 cooks, 400 musicians, 200 men in charge of menageries and aviaries, 1,200 female slaves. Properly speaking, there is no civil list, and accurate figures are not easily reached. The ladies, veiled and attended, visit in their walled gardens and palaces, hired musicians play on lutes and almehs dance for their amusement. Donizetti, brother of the famous composer, was at one time director-in-chief of the Sultan's music.—Susan E. Wallace, in Philadelphia Press.

THE MURDERED CZAR.

A Charming Story of the Late Alexander II. of Russia.

There appeared in print a most scurrilous attack upon the morals of the Czar and the Empress, in rhyme, which was discovered to be the work of a young noble, famous for his literary gifts, but strongly suspected of Nihilistic tendencies. When the identity of the author was reported to the Czar he sent for the young man to come and see him. They chatted together for a few moments on commonplace topics, when the Czar invited him to take luncheon with the imperial family. After the luncheon was served and the Czar sat sipping a cup of tea, he turned to the young noble and said:

"I understand you are a very clever poet."

The author blushed and acknowledged that he did some verses now and then.

"And I am informed that you are the writer of a most beautiful tribute to your Emperor and Empress lately—one of the most charming things I have ever seen, so pure and elevated in sentiment, so nobly and beautifully conceived and so honorably published. I have asked you here that you may see the family you have made the subject of your lines, in order that you may judge for yourself how truthful you are, and witness 'the old boar,' as you called me, and 'the old sow,' as you called my wife, 'the litter of pigs,' as you called my children, 'eating from the trough,' as you were pleased to call my table. Now that you for the first time have had an opportunity to see what degraded beasts we are, I must ask you to return the favor by reading your little work aloud in our presence. Here is a copy," said the Czar, drawing from his pocket one of the brutal and obscene pamphlets that had been published anonymously and circulated broadcast.

The young poet dropped upon his knees and begged for mercy. He denied and confessed the authorship in the same breath, and actually fell over in a faint. He said he would rather be hung, rather be sent to Siberia than read the poem in the presence of the family, and tore the pamphlet to tatters. The Czar took him by the hand, bade him ask the forgiveness of the Empress and then with a word of admonition dismissed him.—Chicago News.

He went but forgot his errand, and when his wife went to look for him, a half hour later, she found him sound asleep. From force of habit, when he got to his room, he wound his watch, hung it in its usual place, disrobed and went to bed.

THE SENSE OF TUNE.

An Army Officer Who Could Not Distinguish One Note from Another.

That there are many people who are unable either to sing a tune or to recognize one when it is sung is well known. But no musician nor man of science is able fully to account for the phenomenon of one person out of twenty, or one out of forty, according to the nation to which he belongs, being unable to do what all the rest do instinctively, although his hearing is as good as theirs. It has been suggested that people so afflicted have ears that are not, so to speak, mates, inasmuch as they hear the musical sounds differently, and so make a discord and render the effect disagreeable. But this theory seems to be disproved by the circumstance that music is not by any means disagreeable to many people who do not know one note from another. Though they can not distinguish even a tune that has been sung or played to them a great many times, they are nevertheless "moved with concord of sweet sounds." Other people hear all musical sounds alike, and to them music is not discord, but simply noise.

But if the theory of the unlike ears does not explain all cases of "music deafness," it seems to explain some of them. General Grant used to say that all music was torture to him. A certain gallant Major, however, was differently affected. A young lady, who had sung a great many songs to him, finally remarked:

"But, perhaps, Major, you do not like music?"

"O yes, miss; I may say that I like any kind of noise!"

A certain gentleman who is master of a New England high school is very lenient to such of his pupils as declare themselves unable to sing. He remembers an experience which he had in his own youth, when he was required to sing, with others, in school, although he could not distinguish one tone from another. Seeing that his singing seemed to give him a good deal of distress, the teacher called him out and asked him if he could sing the scale.

"I suppose so, sir," said the boy.

"Then let me hear you."

The boy sang "Do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, si, do," but all upon one note, without a particle of difference between them. He had never supposed there was any thing more of it. In after-life this gentleman became an officer in the service of the Union. He found that his entire inability to distinguish one musical note from another caused him difficulty in recognizing the bugle calls. They were all on one note to him. As it was necessary for him to know them, he sent for a bugler and had him practice all the calls, in succession, before his tent. After a series of these studies, he became able to distinguish the calls, but he learned them rather by their rhythm than by the varying notes.—Youth's Companion.

Communications upon matters of local or general interest solicited.

Communications designed to call attention to any matter of limited or individual interest will not be inserted unless paid for as an advertisement.

The author's real name must accompany all communications, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. This rule will not be deviated from.

THE TAXES.

Never before has such a general complaint went up against the assessment and taxation of property in this valley as this year. The State and county taxes which our people are called upon to pony up this year are simply outrageous, and is the result of electing men to State and county offices who are looking out for No. One every time. The tax-payers can go to the devil in so far as the scheming office seeker is concerned, and in consequence the public money is squandered in a most reckless and extravagant manner. Here in Sonoma county we have many loyal public officials whose sole aim is to serve their constituents faithfully. But unfortunately we have others who are not so conscientiously disposed, and hence the general complaint of extravagance and high taxes. We opine that when these latter officials again come before the people begging for their suffrages they will receive a rebuke that will cause them to retire forever from public life.

OLIVE TREE PLANTING.

Considerable interest has been manifested in this valley the past two or three years in olive tree planting. Several thousand have already been set out and many more will be planted this season. At the present time the State is flooded with hundreds of thousands of young olive trees for planting which have been produced from seedling cuttings. These will surely turn out to be a disappointment to the planter. It has been demonstrated in this valley that such trees do not come into bearing inside of eight or nine years, while the fruit is of an inferior quality, being very small and practically useless for pickling purposes.

Olive trees that have given the most satisfaction in Sonoma Valley are the true Italian Picholine and the Manzinillo. These come into bearing the third year and produce the finest of fruit both for pickling and the manufacture of olive oil.

ONE day last week a young man engaged in plowing for Dave Hudson, twelve miles east of Galt, Sacramento county, was not a little surprised in turning in the furrow at his feet two $20 pieces. The young man was so highly elated over his discovery that he stopped his team and rushed to the Hudson household to inform the family. The farmer and his family accompanied the exceedingly honest young man to the spot where the money was found, and after a little further search an old rusty can was unearthed containing $1,640 in 20-dollar gold pieces. Hudson took the coin and the plowman received $20 of the money as a reward for his honesty. The treasure had evidently been buried by one of the many stage robbers that infested that region years ago.

AN editor in this county does not have to saw wood, but he carries coal, makes paste, attends all the meetings, reads a lot of trash to get a little news, does job printing, runs the band press, runs errands, sweeps out once a month, makes out bills once a month and then makes them out over again next month, and smiles sweetly on the man who threatens to kill him on sight. Then there are some editors who "Rush the growler," "deal," "buck tiger," get drunk, stay drunk and let all of the before mentioned duties go to thunder.—Rising Sun Independent.

THE St. Helena Star notes the sale at that place of 1,700 gallons of grape brandy at 50 cents per gallon, a large advance on former prices.

When, from any cause, the digestive and secretory organs become disordered, they may be stimulated to healthy action by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. These Pills are prescribed by the best physicians and are for sale at all the drug-stores.

The Modern Gladiator.

From the days of Homer down to the present, feats of physical prowess and personal contests between men of mighty strength and skill have commanded the unbounded interest of mankind. These themes, recounted in lofty measure, have won for poet, historian and novelist undying fame. It is a fact that John L. Sullivan, as he travels over the country excites more interest and draws greater crowds than the President of the United States. This he does in spite of unworthy traits of character, and simply because he stands the embodiment of strength, courage and endurance; the victor over all antagonists, unconquored and unconquorable.

The Athletic Publishing Company, of 1120 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., have just published for the subscription trade a profusely illustrated life of Sullivan, entitled, the Modern Gladiator. This book tells the truth about Sullivan, without seeking to cover or excuse his faults; it give a full history of his remarkable career, his parentage, birth and boyhood, education in the Boston schools, his first fight at the age of fifteen—a complete and detailed description by an eye-witness of his long list of contests and triumphs, including his battles with Joe Goss and John Donaldson, with Taylor, Flood, Crossley, McCarthy, Donovan, Dalton and Byrnes. His great battle with Paddy Ryan, his battles with Jim Elliot, Tug Wilson, Laflin, Robinson, with Greenfield Burke, McCaffrey, Herald and Cardiff. His triumphant trip abroad, battle with Mitchell in France, his noted meeting with the Prince of Wales.

Before his recent fight with Kilrain it is well known that Sullivan was a physical wreck when Muldoon took hold of him—unsteady of nerve, flabby of muscle, short of wind, reduced by excesses, and poisoned by typhoid. A more formidable single, unarmed fighting machine never appeared in the world before than was this same Sullivan when he stripped at Richburg; and it was William Muldoon who produced that phenomenal figure. How was it done? The answer to this question will be found in the book.

As a whole, the book will prove mighty interesting reading to a wide class of readers. Not only admirers of the manly art, but every man whose health or physical condition is below par is interested in it.

Boils and Carbuncles Cured.

For years I have been constantly troubled with humors in the blood, which caused the breaking out of boils and carbuncles all over my body, that when bruised would make a lasting, ugly sore. I consulted many eminent physicians and took a great deal of medicine without any perceptible benefit, Nothing helped me but Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) That medicine cured me. I am now enjoying excellent health, and there is not a blemish of any kind on my body.

MICHAEL MCHALE, Bulo, Neb.

Inherited Scrotula.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of heriditary scrofula, which broke out all over his face. For a year he had suffered, and I had given up all hopes of his recovery, when at length I was induced to use S. S. S. After using a few bottles he was entirely cured. Not a symptom now remains of the disease. This was three years ago.

A Sexton Speaks.

Mr. John A. Cleary, sexton of Oakwood Cemetery, Waco, Texas, says: "Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) is a sure cure for any description of blood poison. About a year ago I contracted a blood poisonous disease, and tried a number of remedies without avail. I was about to become disheartened, when a friend induced me to try (S. S. S.) After taking a part of one bottle I was a sound man, and no symptoms of the fell disease have ever returned."

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

The Chamber of Torture

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflamatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific effect, are yet very desirable at times. Yet can they produce no lasting effect on rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the onset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should, therefore be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, malaria and nervousness are relieved by it.

Farmers would do well to read the advertisement of Jas. Martin, which appears in another column. He is the agent for the Wiard Plow, which has given so much satisfaction in this valley. He warrants these plows to do first class work if properly adjusted.

Mr. O. B. Shaw has gathered the past week several messes of ripe raspberries from bushes growing on his farm near this place. The bushes are also in bloom and should nothing unforseen happen, such as an unusually heavy frost, the bushes will continue to produce until Christmas.

The storm which set in last Sunday morning continued without cessation until Wednesday night. The precipitation during that period was 3.57 inches, making 12.26 inches for the season. The rainfall at times was very heavy and on Tuesday all the streams in the valley were running bank full.

Pioda's grocery store on Napa street has received a fine coat of bright red paint. We are glad to note this departure from the old time white color, and hope to see others of our merchants follow suit and brighten up their respective places of business with a little red, green or yellow paint. Anything for a change.

In another column we offer twenty acres of rich farming land, well fenced and watered, for $100 per acre. This is the best prune and table grape land in this valley, and is well worth $200 per acre. It is located only one mile from town and is the cheapest piece of land in Sonoma Valley. This land is assessed at $100 per acre.

Don't forget the ball to be given by the N. S. G. W., at Union Hall Thanksgiving Eve. The attendance promises to be the largest that has congregated in this place for a long time. The reputation which Sonoma Parlor has obtained for getting up affairs of this kind has caused the ball-going public of Sonoma Valley to look forward to this event with great pleasure. A goodly number of Native Sons from Napa and adjacent parlors will also be present. Supper will be served by C. J. Barta of the Union.

Native Sons Banquet.

The members of Sonoma Parlor, No. 111, N. S. G. W., entertained twenty-two members of Napa Parlor and a number of other invited guests with a banquet at the Sonoma House last Tuesday evening. About fifty were present and merriment and good cheer reigned supreme around the festive board. Speeches were made by Hon. H. C. Gesford, Hon. F. L. Coombs, R. A. Poppe, Geo. H. Maxwell and others. The remarks by Mr. Gesford particularly were impressive. After paying a glowing compliment to Sonoma Parlor and extolling the virtues of the order, he wound up by stating that the Native Sons of California were a unit against the division of the State, as has been agitated by a number of politicians and the Press of Southern California. R. A. Poppe told in his modest way a good story about a resident of Marin county and recited the school-boy's essay on "Woodpeckers," both of which provoked considerable merriment. The festivities were kept up until after midnight when the entertainers and their guests departed for their respective homes imbued with a spirit of more brotherly regard for the members of the order and a friendly feeling for mankind in general.

The supper served by mine host Flynn was all that could be desired.

A Hoax.

A irresponsible person who has no regard for the truth has telegraphed from Boomtown to the city papers a fictitious story about one Knudson. The story goes on to state that that individual was a recluse inhabiting a rude cabin at the foot of Hooker Falls, which are located a few miles from Sonoma. That the high water caused by the recent storm swept the cabin into the creek. That Knudson (who is a myth) was carried by the flood down the stream and swept into Sonoma creek, where he was discovered clinging to the roof of the cabin, a portion of which had been taken possession of by a bear. The story then goes on to state that the bear was shot, the man rescued and died the next day, and on his person was found a letter giving a sensational history of his past life. The whole story is the veriest rot and that part of it referring to the cabin and man being carried down Hooker creek by the force of the flood and thence into Sonoma creek is perfectly absurd. The story, which is manufactured out of whole cloth, is in keeping with the boomtown—there is nothing in it.

The City Trustees held a special meeting last Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of receiving and opening bids for hydrants or fire plugs for the use of the Sonoma Fire Department. Bids were also received for furnishing gravel for the next twelve months.

Bids on the former were received from W. H. Y. Schenck of San Francisco, J. G. Marcy and G. Pabst of Sonoma.

On motion of Trustee Poppe the bids for hydrants were rejected owing to irregularities, and Clerk Breitenbach was instructed to re-advertise for proposals for ten or more Schenck hydrants, according to the former specifications, said bids to be handed in to the Clerk before November 26th at 1 P. M.

Bids for furnishing gravel were put in as follows: J. P. Weems, $1 per cubic yard; Wm. Parish, $1 per cubic yard; John Revie, 90 cents per cubic yard. On motion it was ordered that the bids be withdrawn and others substituted before the final consideration of the same on November 26th at 1 P. M.

A petition signed by R. B. Lyon and seventeen others was received and laid over till the next regular meeting. The petitioners ask that the Christian Advent Church be allowed to use the City Paivlion.

The Board then adjourned.

Sad Death.

Little Robert, the only son of Hon. Robert and Mrs. Howe, died at the home of his parents last Thursday night of acute inflammation of the throat after an illness of one week. Everything that fond parents and medical skill could do was done to save him, but without avail. An all-wise Providence ordained otherwise. The funeral will take place to-day from the residence of his parents, Eden Dale, at 2 P. M. The remains will be interred in Laurel Hill cemetery, San Francisco, to-morrow morning. Little Robert was aged 3 years 6 months and 18 days. Mr. and Mrs. Howe have our sympathy in their bereavement.

A. Schweickhardt of the Union Bakery will supply his old patrons and the public generally with fresh bread daily commencing to-day. Parties desiring to be served will please leave orders at Hintz's tailoring establishment next door to the the new bakery building which is in course of construction. *

TOOK THE WRONG MEDICINE.

Fred. Keller Swallows a Dose of Carbolic Acid.

Frederick Keller, a pioneer resident of Sonoma, died in San Francisco last Saturday morning from the effects of a dose of carbolic acid taken by mistake. It appears that he had been suffering for some time past with an eruption on one of his legs, caused by an accident which befel him in this city years ago. His physician, Dr. Muffe, prescribed medicine for internal and external use, the latter being carbolic acid, a deadly poison. The druggist in putting up the medicines, which were similar in color, used two bottles exactly alike. Saturday morning the deceased thoughtlessly took up the wrong bottle and pouring out a dose of acid swallowed it. The fatal draught instantly sized him with Death's grip and in a half-dazed condition he rushed from his home to a corner grocery store in the immediate vicinity where he fell on the floor and expired in a few minutes.

Deceased was an old pioneer. He came to California in the spring of 1850 and located in Sonoma in 1858. On the 14th of June, 1860 he was married to Miss Mary O'Brien by Father Dyer of Napa and the couple resided continuously in this place for 25 years. About six years ago Mr. Keller sold his property interests in Sonoma and removed to San Francisco, where he continued to reside up to the time of his death. At one time he was the owner of the Dr. Lawrence place, which he kept as a place of public resort. He was a lover of athletic games and when the Sonoma Turn Verein was started he was one of the charter members and for years took an active interest in its affairs. He was a kind-hearted gentleman and many people who knew him in the "auld lang syne" can testify to his many acts of generosity. Mr. Keller was a member of Sonoma Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F. and his remains were taken charge of by his brother members and forwarded to his old Sonoma home for interment. His funeral took place last Monday under the auspices of the Order and his remains laid to rest in the Odd Fellows burial plat in the City Cemetery. Deceased was born in Lengerich, Westphalia, Germany, and was 65 years of age.

The Lost Found.

The body of the little Monez boy, two years and a half old, who so strangely disappeared from his home near Sebastopol during the fore part of last month, was found Thursday afternoon in a creek, about half a mile from the house of his parents. Mr Clark, who discovered the dead body of the little child, was searching for a missing cow. On crossing the creek in question his eye was attracted by a portion of the little one's clothing and on approaching closer he was horrified at seeing the decomposed features of the corpse staring up at him. The body was lying flat on the bottom of the creek, the water submerging all but the knees, which were drawn up, and a portion of the face. That part of the body which was under the water had decayed but little, though the exposed portions were badly decomposed. Justice Beacom was notified of the ghastly discovery and immediately impaneled a jury and held an inquest. The verdict was death from accidental drowning. Although the suspicions which were first entertained concerning the mysterious disapperance of the child have not all been allayed, the general theory is that the child became bewildered while wandering around in the rain and fell into the creek. The reason that the child, being so close to those who were searching for him, did not answer their calls, is explained by the fact that he was unable to utter a loud cry owing to a malformation in the throat. The parents are almost frantic with grief.—Democrat.

Death of a Former Sonoma County Resident.

Prof. G. W. Jones died at his home in St. Helena on the 15th inst., aged 49 years. For a number of years he was a leading educator in this county. In June, 1864, he taught school at Bodega Corners and later on established the Green Valley Academy near Santa Rosa. In 1870 he was elected Superintendent of Schools of this county and served two terms. He afterward founded at Santa Rosa an academy and normal school, which he conducted with great success for ten years, being widely known throughout the coast as one of the best institutions of learning in California.

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, stimulates the secretions, and imparts new life and vigor to every function of the body. For nearly half a century, it has remained unrivaled as the best blood purifier ever discovered. Be convinced by a trial.

County News Items.

In returning to his room at the Occidental Hotel on Sunday evening C. V. Tupper sustained an injury that may keep him confined to his bed for some time. On reaching the landing, some twelve feet above the court of the hotel, he fell from the platform, striking the back part of his head on the stone pavement below. It was thought at first that his skull was fractured, but the physicians who are in attendance on him say that such is not the case, and that, with proper attention he will recover in a few weeks. It was a very narrow escape from a fatal accident.—Republican.

An accident occurred last Saturday afternoon about five miles south of Santa Rosa, on the Petaluma road, in which Frank Roberts lost a valuable horse and his son Will sustained a broken arm. Mr. Roberts' six-horse in charge of Nick Crille, took fright and one of the horses fell, breaking a leg and precipitating Will Roberts end Eugene Fisher from the wagon breaking the former's arm. Mr. Fisher was rendered insensible by the fall. His restoration was accomplished with difficulty.—Democrat.

Jim Crosby, who owns a poultry yard near this place, with a clear conscience and tired limbs quietly retired last Thursday night sleeping the sleep of the just. At about 12 P. M. he was suddenly awakened by a noise in his hen house. Quickly donning a paper collar and with pop-gun in hand he started for the hennery. Upon arrival there he found a coon taking his midnight meal on a couple of his best layers. Objecting to this, Jim raised his popper and popped away, and a dead coon was the consequence. Upon a closer examination he discovered a rope around the coon's neck and identified him as the property of Tom Mullhall, the butcher. Jim looked troubled and sore but again retired and as the rays of the morning sun shone through his window, he arose and informed Tom. of the killing of his pet. A slight quarrel ensued which finally wound up by the owner taking the scalp and Jim taking chicken dinners for a few days.

HOW SHOES ARE MADE.

The Oldtime Method Abandoned—Work Done by the Machine.

Nearly all the shoes manufactured at the present time are constructed by machinery. As in other mechanical industries, the oldtime method, by which each workman put together a boot from the cutting of the sole to the stitching of the upper leather, has been abandoned for the system that gives to every person employed some small part only of the task to be performed. Perchance it will not be uninteresting to review in detail the process by which a pair of men's foot coverings is evolved from the original leather. The material employed may be calfskin, buff leather, grain or split. Buff leather is ordinary cowskin, with the rough outside ground off it by a buffing wheel. Frequently the hide is sliced with a knife into two layers, the outer one next to the hair being called the grain and the inner one the split. The latter makes an excellent quality of leather, while the former has the great advantage of being waterproof. In any case, however, the first operation necessary is the tanning. This is simple, and is performed by suspending the skins, just as they come from the animal, in vats filled with hot sumach liquor or hemlock bark. For eight days or less they are left to soak, and then are taken out, washed and dried in the sun, or under cover with revolving fans. Finally they are carefully blacked—for ordinary use at any rate. In this condition they are brought to the factory, in big bundles, and now the process begins.

First, the operator in the cutting room places the thickest of cowhides—previously chopped into long stripes, of a width just equal to the length of the shoe desired—on a table beneath a steel die, which descends at brief intervals and cuts out a series of perfect soles, as the material is shoved along by the practiced hand of the workman. Another man chops out in like manner the various pieces for the "upper," using for this purpose dies that are manipulated by hand, with mallets to strike them with. But all really fine goods are cut out by hand entirely, the expert employing brass edged patterns around which he runs a keen knife blade. The upper is almost invariably in three pieces instead of six, as formerly. In this scrappy condition the upper of the contemplated boot is sent to the stitching department, where it is put together by girls with sewing machines of massive construction, especially adapted to this sort of work. The making of buttons and buttonholes, lining, etc., all comes under the head of stitching. This performed, the shoe that is to be goes to the laster, whose part of the task is perhaps more important to its success than that allotted to any one else.

In big factories the lasting is done by a "team" of men. No. 1 takes the wooden last and tacks the insole upon it, passing it over thereupon to No. 2, who stretches the upper over the last and tacks it so as to hold. No. 3 lays the outer sole over the insole, and secures it with lasting tacks. The shoe, thus fixed temporarily in shape, is next sewn together by machine, and the sole is finally attached with pegs or screws. It is a wonderful thing to see the mechanical contrivance devised for this purpose go over the bottom of a boot with an endless wire screw in its jaws, putting in metallic pegs wherever needed, never too long and never too short, until one shoe is completed and thrown aside for another, the whole operation being gone through from beginning to end automatically. Now the job is taken up by the heeler, who affixes the heel already prepared by a single stroke of a machine hammer, while a knife is whirled around almost simultaneously and cuts the new attachment cleanly to the proper shape. This done, the product, now nearly finished, goes to a person who blacks the edges of the sole and heel. The final touches are added by an artist who burnishes these same parts with an oscillating wheel, and the shoes are ready for market.

Such is the process by which nearly all the shoes made in New England are turned out. It is a curious fact, by the way, that the shoes made for selling in this part of the country have much lower insteps than those sent to the south; people here possessing feet but slightly arched—a symptom of physical degeneration, it is said. The manufacturer is obliged, in fact, to produce a boot of special shape for every small section of the country supplied by him, and it is quite the usual thing to send around agents to the retailers to secure the measurements of the local pedal extremities in such and such a township, from which a general average is figured out and lasts designed accordingly.—Boston Cor. Chicago Tribune.

A Hint to the Workingman.

"Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," and we may be thankful that it is so, for otherwise what a sight of misery there would be. Take the average workman today. What use has he made of his life? Has he done anything, either for himself or his fellow men, that will cause him to be remembered by them when he shall have gone hence? What has he lived for? Has it been for the improvement of his mind and the good of his family and friends? Let us hope it has.

But you may ask, "What has this to do with mechanics or the trades?".

We answer, that it has everything to do with them and with those that represent them. What we want is more intelligent and thoughtful men, not in the pulpit, the law office or the counting room alone, but in the shop and at the workbench—the very place where real intelligence counts and is needed if anywhere. We are not bound to let others think and direct for us, nor will we be bound to the thoughts and ideas of others unless we are satisfied with an animal existence. — A. B. Guernsey in Boston Budget.

A Church Supported by Cotton.

A Baptist church in Choctaw county, Ala., is supported entirely from the proceeds of the church farm, a tract of sixteen acres planted in cotton. The land is rented by the church members, and on regular occasions they all get together and give the ground a thorough tilling free of charge. The church thus has an income sufficient for its needs, and the pastor never feels any anxiety about his salary.—New York Evening World.

Is Consumption Curable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and am able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottle free at E. Wegner's drug store.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Att'y., Clay Co., Texas, says: "Have used Electric with most happy results. My brother was also, very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life." Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50 cts. and $1 at E. Wegner's drug store.

The INDEX-TRIBUNE office is prepared to turn out on short notice all kinds of job printing.

the result is a collision, whether "coming thro' the rye," or not. Life is full of collisions. We are constantly colliding with somebody or something. If it isn't with our neighbors it is with some dread diseases that "knocks us off the track" and perhaps disables us for life. Women especially it seems have to bear the brunt of more collisions and afflictions than mankind. In all cases of nervousness, bearing-down sensations, tenderness, periodical pains, sick headache, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration and all "female irregularities" and "weaknesses," Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the rescue of women as no other medicine does. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. A $20 A Day Man!

A VOICE from Ohio. Here is a portrait of Mr. Garrison, of Salem, Ohio. He writes: "Was at work on a farm for $20 a month; I now have an agency for E.C. Allen & Co's albums and publications and often make $20 a day." (Signed) W. H. GARRISON.

William Kline, Harrisburg, Pa., writes: "I have never known anything to sell like your album. Yesterday I took orders enough to pay me over $25." W. J. Elmore, Bangor, Me., writes: "I take an order for your album at almost every house I visit. My profit is often as muchas $20 For a single day's work." Others are doing quite as well; we have not space to give extracts from their letters. Every one who takes hold of this grand business piles up grand profits. Shall we start YOU in this business, reader? Write to us and learn all about it for yourself. We are starting many; we will start you if you don't delay until another gets ahead of you in your part of the country. If you take hold you will be able to pick up gold fast. ☞ Read—On account of a forced manufacturer's sale 125,000 ten dollar Photograph Albums are to be sold to the people for $3 each. Bound in Royal Crimson Silk Velvet Plush. Charmingly decorated insides. Handsomest albums in the world. Largest Size. Greatest bargains ever known. Agents wanted. Liberal terms. Big money for agents. Any one can become a successful agent. Sells itself on sight—little or no talking necessary. Wherever shown, every one wants to purchase. Agents take thousands of orders with rapidity never before known. Great profits await every worker. Agents are making fortunes. Ladies make as much as men. You, reader, can do as well as any one. Full information and terms free, to those who write for same, with particulars and terms for our Family Bibles, Books and Periodicals. After you know all, should you conclude to go no further, why no harm is done. Address E. C. ALLEN & CO., AUGUSTA, MAINE.
